I regret to inform you that the 2024 Guides will be the last that I publish.

Having initiated these many years ago, with my late husband Julian, the time has come to retire. Age and health are catching up, plus I have other interests that are demanding my time.

I have many people to thank for encouraging me to continue and have been helpful in the process of publication:

Steve at SJF Design and Print (Shrewsbury):

who has provided me with a superb service over the years and has always worked over Christmas on the production so that I have got my supplies in the New Year.

Trevor & Paul Dale:

who have tirelessly been my main distribution outlet. The Royal Mail has had to take on the role of providing people with their guides, which obviously comes at a great cost. Not least of which we have to seek out a Post Office to enable that to happen - a car journey for both of us. They have both encouraged me in the past, which gave me the strength to carry on.

You:

Lastly I would like to thank each and every person who has bought copies from us over the years and those who have given us encouragement and praise.

Thank you everyone.

I sincerely hope that your collections will go from strength to strength and that you may obtain that much coveted item you desire.

With all good wishes

Christine Burles
